

The first part of the book is devoted to a general description of the country, its climate, soil, and productions. The author then proceeds to a detailed account of the principal cities, towns, and villages, describing their situation, extent, and the nature of their commerce. He also mentions the principal manufactures, and the state of agriculture in each of these places.
 The second part of the book contains a description of the principal rivers, lakes, and seas, and the nature of the navigation upon them. The author also mentions the principal ports, and the nature of the trade carried on in each of them. The third part of the book is devoted to a description of the principal mountains, hills, and valleys, and the nature of the soil in each of these places.
 The fourth part of the book contains a description of the principal minerals, and the nature of the mines, and the manner in which they are worked. The fifth part of the book is devoted to a description of the principal animals, and the nature of the husbandry carried on in each of these places. The sixth part of the book contains a description of the principal plants, and the nature of the agriculture carried on in each of these places.
 The seventh part of the book is devoted to a description of the principal customs, and the nature of the government, and the state of the law in each of these places. The eighth part of the book contains a description of the principal manners, and the nature of the education, and the state of the sciences in each of these places. The ninth part of the book is devoted to a description of the principal arts, and the nature of the manufactures, and the state of the commerce in each of these places. The tenth part of the book contains a description of the principal religions, and the nature of the worship, and the state of the clergy in each of these places. The eleventh part of the book is devoted to a description of the principal languages, and the nature of the literature, and the state of the sciences in each of these places. The twelfth part of the book contains a description of the principal coins, and the nature of the currency, and the state of the money in each of these places. The thirteenth part of the book is devoted to a description of the principal weights, and the nature of the measures, and the state of the weights and measures in each of these places. The fourteenth part of the book contains a description of the principal laws, and the
 nature of the government, and the state of the law in each of these places. The fifteenth part of the book is devoted to a description of the principal customs, and the
 nature of the government, and the state of
 the law in each of these places. The sixteenth part of the book contains a description of the principal manners, and the nature of the education, and the state of the sciences in each of these places. The seventeenth part of the book is devoted to a description of the principal arts, and the nature of the manufactures, and the state of the commerce in each of these places. The eighteenth part of the book contains a description of the principal religions, and the nature of the worship, and the state of the clergy in each of these places. The nineteenth part of the book is devoted to a description of the principal languages, and the nature of the literature, and the state of the sciences in each of these places. The twentieth part of the book contains a description of the principal coins, and the nature of the
 currency, and the state of the money in each of these places. The twenty-first part of the book is devoted to a description of the
 principal weights, and the nature of the
 measures, and the state of the weights and
 measures in each of these places. The twenty-second part of the book contains a description of the principal laws, and the
 nature of the government, and the state of
 the law in each of these places. The twenty-third part of the book is devoted to a description of the principal customs, and the
 nature of the government, and the state of
 the law in each of these places. The twenty-fourth part of the book contains a description of the principal manners, and the
 nature of the education, and the state of
 the sciences in each of these places. The twenty-fifth part of the book is devoted to a description of the principal arts, and the
 nature of the manufactures, and the state of
 the commerce in each of these places. The twenty-sixth part of the book contains a description of the principal religions, and the
 nature of the worship, and the state of the clergy in each of these places. The twenty-seventh part of the book is devoted to a description of the principal languages, and the nature of the literature, and the state of the sciences in each of these places. The twenty-eighth part of the book contains a description of the principal coins, and the nature of the currency, and the state of the money in each of these places. The twenty-ninth part of the book is devoted to a description of the principal weights, and the nature of the measures, and the state of the weights and measures in each of these places.
 The thirtieth part of the book contains a description of the principal laws, and the
 nature of the government, and the state of
 the law in each of these places. The thirty-first part of the book is devoted to a description of the principal customs, and the
 nature of the government, and the state of
 the law in each of these places. The thirty-second part of the book contains a description of the principal manners, and the
 nature of the education, and the state of
 the sciences in each of these places. The thirty-third part of the book is devoted to a description of the principal arts, and the
 nature of the manufactures, and the state of
 the commerce in each of these places. The thirty-fourth part of the book contains a description of the principal religions, and the
 nature of the worship, and the state of the clergy in each of these places. The thirty-fifth part of the book is devoted to a
 description of the principal languages, and the
 nature of the literature, and the state of the
 sciences in each of these places. The thirty-sixth part of the book contains a description of the principal coins, and the
 nature of the currency, and the state of the money in each of these places. The thirty-seventh part of the book is devoted to a
 description of the principal weights, and the
 nature of the measures, and the state of the
 weights and measures in each of these places.
 The thirty-eighth part of the book contains a description of the principal laws, and the
 nature of the government, and the state of
 the law in each of these places. The thirty-ninth part of the book is devoted to a description of the principal customs, and the
 nature of the government, and the state of
 the law in each of these places. The fortieth part of the book contains a description of the principal manners, and the
 nature of the education, and the state of
 the sciences in each of these places. The forty-first part of the book is devoted to a description of the principal arts, and the
 nature of the manufactures, and the state of
 the commerce in each of these places. The forty-second part of the book contains a description of the principal religions, and the
 nature of the worship, and the state of the clergy in each of these places. The forty-third part of the book is devoted to a description of the principal languages, and the
 nature of the literature, and the state of the
 sciences in each of these places. The forty-fourth part of the book contains a description of the principal coins, and the
 nature of the currency, and the state of the money in each of these places. The forty-fifth part of the book is devoted to a
 description of the principal weights, and the
 nature of the measures, and the state of the
 weights and measures in each of these places.
 The forty-sixth part of the book contains a description of the principal laws, and the
 nature of the government, and the state of
 the law in each of these places. The forty-seventh part of the book is devoted to a description of the principal customs, and the
 nature of the government, and the state of
 the law in each of these places. The forty-eighth part of the book contains a description of the principal manners, and the
 nature of the education, and the state of
 the sciences in each of these places. The forty-ninth part of the book is devoted to a description of the principal arts, and the
 nature of the manufactures, and the state of
 the commerce in each of these places. The fiftieth part of the book contains a description of the principal religions, and the
 nature of the worship, and the state of the clergy in each of these places.