So the Puss put on boots, and he started abroad.
And caught a fine rabbit just near the high-road.
Which he took to the palace, and gave to the King:
"This I from the Marquis of Carabas bring."
Again Puss went hunting, and carried the prey
To the King, with the Marquis's duty, each day.